NEW YORK HERIALD, WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1860. TRIPLE SHEET, and friends on Sunday. Liquor is openly sold in wagons on the streets on the Sabbath; and with Westchester on the north and Jersey on the west the metropolis by nightfall is rerisited by a class of inebriates who seem to ve been either struck by lightning or overby sour lager. There never were seen time so many drunken people in the treets of New York as there were last Sunday. is owing to the over-stringency of the law; and, being so, the law is worse than a dead ter, because it makes obstinate men do that which their better reason would not justify.

GOVERNOR FENTON'S PARDONS-COMPOUNDING FELONY .- The public have severely criticised our police, who have on different occasions secured the property stolen and allowed the thieves to escape. Police officers have been charged with being guilty of compounding a felony by thus permitting the criminals to escape justice. But it seems to us perfectly useless to thus arraign and denounce the police for this offence as long as the Governor pardons criminals after they have been convicted upon the application of parties who expect to have their property restored. When this course is adopted by the highest official in the State there is no justice in denouncing a police officer who secures the property and lets the supposed criminal escape before he is tried. There is altogether too much leniency exhibited of late in regard to those men who are committing theft and other acts against the peace of society. Governor Fenton appears to be imbued with sympathy in that direction, and has commenced in a manner that would lead to the inference that he contemplates a general jail delivery.

The Coming Struggle for Confedera tion-Tactics of the Parties-The Fe-Wheeler Again, &c.

OUR TORONTO CORRESPONDENCE.

For a country on the eve of great constitutional hanges that are to materially affect its future for weal or it approaches when the agitation for confederation t would attach to the question, and its fate in the colonies would be watched with interest. But I the fact that several of the Judge's have expressed in private dissatisfaction with the manner in whoch the prosecution was conducted at Cornwall) the prisoners will likely arrive on Saturday and the entire question be argued next week. It will then rest with the Judges to decide whether the evidence justified their committed. The friends of the prosecrs and their counsel feel sanguage of the discharge of the parties. The government, I undertand, already are sick of the procession, and are in the position of the owner of the white elephant—they do not know what to do with Murphy and his associates. From what I know of the case I feel justified to producing that before a month all the prisoners will be again at liberty.

WIESLESS ON THE FAMPLES.

"If, entenant Colonel" C. C. Wheeler, who was arrested with Sheedy at Cornwall, and, as the Gibbs and Leader say, "proved to be a government say," who gave evidence against the prisoners," after coming hore in search of "officialing" correspondents, returned to Montreal to give coloring to the assertion that he was not a detective, and slarted the report that the Cornwall magistrates were going to arrest him for perjury. He still declares that he is not a spy, and is endeavoring to ingratiate himself again into the confidence of the Institute by coverient detective. He claims that he has a large conficulted property in the Seath, which his atterney, Sam Cox, is endeavoring to recover for him.

London (Canada) papers say letters from reliable Canadians in Chicago piace beyond doubt the fact that the Chicago Fenians are on the eve of a raid upon the; western frontier. The government is rapidly withdrawing troops from the frontier, believing Feniana has exploded.

avail me as an excuse for speaking if I ought to keep silent. Perhaps, however, the solicitude which pervades the country may justify us all in conversing upon political questions in a caudid and patriotic spirit.
We were together here in October last. The national condition has undergone some material changes since that time. We were then on the verge of a series of elections throughout the States. The leaders, unequal assumed and discharged by some new and yet undeveloped political organization. But Precident, congress, states on and parties are of no real account in any committee and parties are of no real account in any committee and parties are of no real account in any committee and parties are of no real account in any committee and parties are of no real account in any committee and parties are of no real account in any committee and in the same of reconciliation in peace. The nation must live. It must hive forever, whether it receive the needed cary in any emergency at the hands of one President, Codgress and party, or at the hands of another. I greate the party of the way about the triumph of the war. I reason in the same way now in regard to reconciliation and peace. I expect that a year hence I shall be found to be right now, as I am now admitted to have been right one year, two years, three years ago. I do not think, however, that there is any necessity for separation between the President, the Congress and the party of the Union. I admit that the jealouses and supplied and increased until they have revealed themselves in inflammatory debates in the press and popular assemblies. I admit that the national Union party in Congress has as yet been unable either to accept or reject the councils of the President. A wide and enduring separation cannot, however, be made between Congress and the President without having for its groove a serious difference upon some cardinal political question. At this point it will be well to settle for yourselves what it is that we are desiring to see effected by the Pres dent and Congress. We all agree that we desire and seek just what the nation needs at the present juncture. We cannot accept less than this, because it would leave us still if not a desolated, at least a disturbed and distracted country. We cannot require more, because even if more were desirable, yet that more is dehalable and the dominance of the demonstrate states of the state of the product of the produc
